Enrolment Requirements

Eligibility requires enrollment in an overseas university as an undergraduate or postgraduate student, proficiency in English, and pre-approval from the student's home institution.

Course Description:

This unit examines the impact of the internationalization of economic activities on employment, jobs, and regulation across different countries and regions. It explores how economic development has shaped various employment arrangements and focuses on the interplay between economics, politics, and society that drives specific employment regulatory regimes. The course maps global economic changes, identifying international economic forces, agents, and political arrangements, and highlights the pressures on employment resulting from these global interactions. Understanding global and national aspects of employment relations is crucial for managing and representing employees today. The course analyzes national employment relations systems in a global context, examining the effects of global processes like offshoring and the influence of institutions such as the World Trade Organization, the International Labor Organization, and Global Union Federations on domestic employment relations.

Prerequisite:

Prior knowledge in fundamental accounting is required for taking this course.

Academic Integrity

Students are expected to uphold the university's academic honesty principles which are an integral part of the university's core values and principles. If a student fails to observe the acceptable standards of academic honesty, they could attract penalties and even disqualification from the course in more serious circumstances. Students are responsible for knowing and observing accepted principles of research, writing and any other task which they are required to complete.

Academic dishonesty or cheating includes acts of plagiarism, misrepresentation, fabrication, failure to reference materials used properly and forgery. These may include, but are not limited to: claiming the work of others as your own, deliberately applying false and inaccurate information, copying the work of others in part or whole, allowing others in the course to copy your work in part or whole, failing to appropriately acknowledge the work of other scholars/authors through acceptable referencing standards, purchasing papers or writing papers for other students and submitting the same paper twice for the same subject.

This Academic Integrity policy applies to all students of the Zhejiang University in all programs of study, including non-graduating students. It is to reinforce the University's commitment to maintain integrity and honesty in all academic activities of the University community.

Policy

The foundation of good academic work is honesty. Maintaining academic integrity upholds the standards of the University. The responsibility for maintaining integrity in all the activities of the academic community lies with the students as well as the faculty and the University. Everyone in this community must work together to ensure that the values of truth, trust and justice are upheld.

Academic dishonesty affects the University's reputation and devalues the degrees offered. The University will impose serious penalties on students who are found to have violated this policy. The following penalties may be imposed:

- ✓ Expulsion
- ✓ Suspension
- ✓ Zero mark /fail grade
- ✓ Marking down

- ✓ Re-doing/re-submitting of assignments or reports, and
- ✓ Verbal or written warning.
